As the 1994 school year began, we, the students of Holmes Community College, chose to make a difference in our lives by attending college. And in being here, we can make a difference not only in our own lives, but in the lives of others as well.

After leaving Holmes, we will take some of what we have learned here and continue to make a difference in the world. We often chart the course of our lives by choosing our course of study. What you choose as a major is not just what you will be studying for the next few semesters; it is what you will be spending the majority of your waking hours over the majority of your lives doing. So think about how what you

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

...ludy will determine your profession and consider how you can make a difference in this profession.

The administration, faculty and staff members make a difference in our lives as students. Whether it is Mrs. Sherry calling you "angel" the first time you call Holmes to check on admission requirements or finally understanding the parts of an engine or learning the locations of the stars while at the observatory, everything you learn, both in and out of the classroom, makes a difference in your life.

Each individual class may not seem like the most extraordinary event of your life, but each one is a building block for the rest of your life.

Just as being a student at Holmes Community College makes a difference in our lives, we can make a difference in the life of the campus and the other students as well.

Making a difference in someone's life does not take a monumental or heroic deed. By simply saying "Good Morning" to your roommate, you have made a difference. Stopping to speak to a friend on the way to class can make a difference. Helping someone through a difficult time or helping them with a tough homework assignment are also ways of making a positive impact on someone's life.

We touch the lives of many people in the course of each day. In each interaction, we have the power to make a difference. We may not always make the best difference, but we do try to strive to make some kind of difference.

If a friend is confronted with a difficult problem, we may feel that we need to give advice to make a difference, but this is not always the case. Listening to someone takes little or no effort, but ultimately can be the greatest contribution we can make in helping them.

Through our efforts to make a difference in the lives of the individuals around us, we are making a contribution to making the world a better place to live.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

Making a difference does not necessarily mean joining an organization for world peace or staging a demonstration to combat world hunger, in reality it takes little or no effort at all. Even with little effort, we can make an immense difference.

Just by doing the things we enjoy and participating in the organizations on campus, we can make a difference. We can be role models, not only for children, but for our peers as well.

A cheerleader encourages us to show support for the football and men's and women's basketball teams. The members of our athletic teams show us what hard work, dedication and perseverance can accomplish. Of course, members of the choral groups and the band also serve as examples of this while entertaining us.

Our experiences here, as well as the people we have met, have a part in molding our lives.

While participating in service projects, members of other campus organizations, such as Phi Theta Kappa, Phi Beta Lambda and Baptist Student Union, demonstrate leadership as they benefit others. By donating funds raised to a charity or adopting a family during the holiday season, the members of these organizations make a difference both on campus and in the world beyond Holmes Community College.

By participating in these organizations, students are also afforded the opportunity to participate in state and national conventions and competitions. Club members attending these conventions are able to meet other students with similar interests from throughout the country. By learning about other students, their campuses, classes and activities, members can bring these ideas back to one of the Holmes campuses and make a difference by showing others a new way of doing things.

of an overactive imagination. Bottom left. At an assembly held in McDaniel Hall on the Goodman Campus near the beginning of the year, Goodman Campus Student Government Association officers (l-r) Casey Wallace, secretary; Marcell Berry, president, and Katrina Clark, treasurer; encourage students to make a difference by getting involved with the various activities sponsored by Student Government Association and other organizations on campus. Bottom right. Cheerleader squad members (on stage, l-r) Amy Loftin, Mandy Link, Laura Rea, Leah Haley, Amy Richardson and (on shoulders) Lisa Giddings lead the student body in supporting the Bulldogs at a pep rally held to get the team revved up of the the first home football game of the season.

The competitions, both on the state and national level, present a challenge for the students to do their very best. This experience can make a difference in the lives of the students competing by building self-confidence as well as set an example for others to follow.

This same ability to set goals and determination to achieve them is what drives the organizations on the Goodman Campus, Ridgeland Campus and Grenada Center at Holmes. By being involved, particularly as club president, team captain or newspaper editor, a student can set an example of how being involved can make a difference.

So think about that the next time a cheerleader asks you to participate in an activity or a member of a choral group asks you to get up and dance with them at a performance. When you participate, you make a difference not only in your own life but in their lives as well.

Our experiences here, as well as the people we have met, have a part in molding our lives. As the year has gone by, each of us has experienced many new thrills as well as some unpleasant moments.

Whether during class, at a football game, working in the concession stand to raise money to go to national convention, or while on a date, these events make a difference.

And these episodes help prepare us for the future.

As we leave Holmes, we will be faced with tremendous challenges. As we enter another college or the working world, we will often have to prove ourselves. In striving to make a name for ourselves in a new setting, we will make a difference.

As we continue through life we will undoubtedly find that it is important to be considerate of others as well as to show respect for those around us. By showing consideration and respect, we make a difference in the lives of others as well as in our own lives. It takes little or no effort at all to treat others with courtesy and appreciation, but it can make a tremendous difference.

We all will get older. There is no way to change that. That is the way we were made. As we get older, we will become wiser. We will continue to make a difference, in the lives of our friends, our families, our communities, our world.

Remember, it takes little or no effort at all.

Miss Holmes Community College 1993

The Miss Holmes Community College Pageant, with the theme "Headed for the Future," was the first event held in the newly refurbished McDaniel Hall Auditorium.

Mrs. Mississippi U.S.A. 1992 Katrina Myricks, who is also District Sex Equity Project Coordinator for Holmes, served as Mistress of Ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by former Miss Mississippi Cherry Busby, who performed two solos, including "Stormy Weather" and "Hard Driving Woman." Opryland entertainer Bruce Smith also delighted the audience with his performance of "Ships That Don't Come In" and "This Is the Moment."

The contestants were judged in four categories: swimsuit, which counted 15 percent; talent, 40 percent; evening gown, 15 percent; and interview, 30 percent. Interviews were held in the afternoon before the pageant.

Molly Simpson was selected Miss Holmes Community College 1993, with Pam Butler named first alternate and talent winner and Traci Alford chosen second alternate.

For Molly, the Miss Holmes Community College Pageant, was just the beginning. From the moment she received the crown as Miss Holmes Community College, Molly began preparing for the Miss Mississippi Pageant held in Vicksburg in July.

Molly's preparations for the pageant went far beyond the usual dieting, exercise and wardrobe selection. In addition to this, she spent countless hours practicing "Operator," which she sang for the talent competition. Molly also sold advertisements for several pages in the Miss Mississippi Program.

The majority of her time was spent working on her platform. Molly selected recycling as her platform and carried her message to civic groups and children. Molly spoke to numerous groups, emphasizing the need for and benefits of recycling as well as how easy recycling can be. She taught children which household products can be recycled and how to divide the items between paper, plastic and glass.

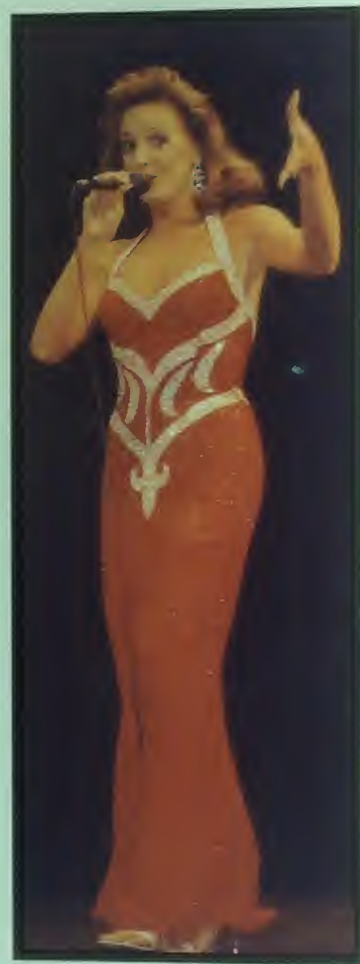

Molly also appeared as Miss Holmes Community College at festivals held in the district, including the Natchez Trace Festival in Kosciusko and the Magnolia Festival in Goodman.

Just prior to leaving for the Miss Mississippi Pageant, Molly held a trunk showing in McDaniel Auditorium. She modeled the interview suit, swimsuit and evening gowns she planned to wear in the talent and evening gown competitions as well as the non-competition outfits, such as the afternoon autograph party dress, the evening autograph party dress, and the arrival outfit.

After the trunk showing, she went to Vicksburg for the Mississippi Pageant, which included many hours of rehearsals and three preliminary pageants before the final competition, held Saturday night.

Molly said the pageant was an enjoyable experience and one she would not have traded for anything.

Emily Young

As secretary to the president of Holmes Community College since 1966, Emily Young has worked with countless administrators, faculty and other staff members, board members, alumni and students. And certainly each one had a positive experience with her.

Her loyalty, dedication and conscientiousness have made her an integral and essential part of the institution in the 28 years she has worked for Holmes.

The Pickens resident is not only a long-time staff member, she is an alumni as well, completing the secretarial program in 1960.

She shares her belief in Holmes with her family. Her husband, Walter Young, attended high school and one year of college at Holmes. All three of her children, Sarah Jones of Brandon, David Young of Madison and Susan Annison, also of Madison, all attended Holmes between 1967 and 1973. One of her grandchildren, Brad Young, graduated from Holmes in 1992 after attending classes at the Ridgeland Campus. And it is likely that when her other grandchildren reach college age, they will also spend some time in the classrooms of Holmes.

It is with sincere appreciation for her years of service and steadfast commitment to Holmes Community College that this, the 65th edition of Horizons, is dedicated to Emily Young.

Morgan meets challenge of moving Holmes into 21st century

Each year when alumni return to Goodman, they visit a campus that has undergone a transformation. Whether it is constructing new buildings or refurbishing older ones in an effort to preserve the rich history of the institution, the changes made each year by the college represent a growth and dynamicism that has become a hallmark of Holmes.

And at the head of all this is its president, Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr. Certainly you can find numerous examples of the energy of the college. A new men's residence hall opened in the fall. The recently refurbished McDaniel Hall Auditorium has been used for numerous performances and activities. The District Administration Building and the Student Center on the Goodman Campus are slated for renovations soon. The Ridgeland Campus and Grenada Center continue to attract more and more students in their areas.

But perhaps the greatest achievement of the 1993-1994 academic year is one in which a great many people share, including alumni, business and community leaders from throughout Holmes' nine-county district, the Board of Trustees, the administration, faculty, staff and students. Holmes was given a challenge, actually two challenges, and all those mentioned above played a part in meeting that challenge.

Holmes was given a challenge grant from Kelly Gene Cook Sr. Foundation and then received a challenge grant from the U.S. Department of Education. The Holmes Community College Development Foundation launched the Lighting the Way Campaign to raise $500,000.

In meeting these challenges, the Development Foundation has secured for Holmes a bright future. The college can move into the 21st century with increased library holdings, computers and software on the cutting edge, new program development, laboratory equipment, instructional materials, and faculty development provided by the $1.5 endowment.

Making a difference through physics

by Natalie Sykes

Physics! A small word for a million activities. The advances made through the study of physics make a difference in our lives everyday.

Did you know that without physics you wouldn't be able to tell how many miles per gallon you get or the rate of speed your were going in your car? Physics is in some way related to everything mechanical. Most everything in our world today was designed and made through the knowledge of physics.

When you drive to class in the morning, you expect the tires on your car to grip the road. Without physics, the engineers would not know how to formulate the rubber for the right amount of traction. And when you pop a lunch bucket in the microwave, think about the scientists whose discoveries make it possible for you to have a hot lunch in thirty seconds or less. And without physics, you would still be doing your papers by hand instead of on the computers and typewriters to which you have become accustomed.

Everyone agrees that physics has made a tremendous difference in our lives, but one debate on the subject remains strong. Is the study of physics a study in math or a study in science?

Goodman and Ridgeland physics instructor Beta Keramati clears this up for us. Physics is not either a math or a science. It is both.

According to Keramati, math is the language used to explain physics but it is considered a science because it is the tool used to communicate physics.

"Physics is a broad and exciting subject. Physics has made a difference in our world in many ways. Without physics we would have no handy little gadgets or even computers. Physics observes the universe and the laws that govern it. It gives us a broader view of our surroundings and the universe. Physics teaches you how to set up and approach a problem scientifically. It helps us to study the mechanics in the entire world. Without physics it is impossible to make progress technically," said Keramati.

With so much to learn, the students in Keramati's classes come away with all kinds of information, some gleaned from the textbook, some from Keramati's lectures and some from experience in the lab.

"I have learned that a steel ball bearing travels with tremendous speed as it soars through the air toward your faithful lab partner," said Casey Wallace, a sophomore from Mendenhall.

And learning about the difference physics has made in our everyday lives leads to speculation about the differences it will make in the years to come.

Jon Rost, a sophomore on the Goodman Campus, feels that discoveries made in physics will lead to making nuclear power safer. Nuclear power will be cost effective and provide more energy for the amount of money. He also feels that physics will better our space travel. Rost plans to make a difference in the world through the use of physics in the classroom.

Keramati feels that she is lucky to be able to teach on both the Ridgeland and Goodman Campuses. She knows that she is making a difference in her students' lives by exposing them to the world of physics. She is proud of the difference she has already made and looks forward to the future differences she will be making in our world with the use of physics.

How does physics make a difference in our lives?

Without physics, we wouldn't have computers. we wouldn't be able to tell how many miles per gallon we were using or how fast we're going, or have tires with the right amount of traction to keep us on the road.

The Job that Makes the Difference

by Crystal Martin

College students often ask themselves and their instructors, "How am I ever going to use this stuff?" Some students no longer have to wonder.

Through the Co-operative Education Program, some Holmes Community College students are finding the answer to that question. By participating in the co-op program the students learn how to put theory into practice. What was once abstract becomes a day-to-day activity.

The Co-operative Education Program is designed for technical majors who are enrolled in a 90 percent technical field. A few of the courses of study available for the program include business and office technology.

This page. Top. Ridgeland Campus student Jason Hawthorne works with fish in the fountain displays as part of his duties in the lawn and garden center at Wal-Mart. Bottom left. drafting and design technology, electronic technology, forestry technology and marketing and management technology. In order to be eligible for this program, a student must be enrolled in one of these classes.

Students participating in this program have received hands-on experience of a number of area businesses including nurseries, insurance agencies, retail stores, law offices, government agencies, computer repair companies and banks.

Ridgeland Campus marketing and management technology major Jason Hawthorne has seen retailing up close and personal while co-oping at Wal-Mart in Ridgeland.

"Wal-Mart is one of American's strongest retail businesses. The corporation is admired by people all over the world. I consider myself lucky to work for them. I get a feeling of satisfaction for working there and they have helped me mature a lot, too. I wanted to start college and make a real future for myself. When I started college, I heard about the co-op course and it sounded like a good idea to take it. The co-op course has helped me very much at work and I feel Wal-Mart is now getting a more qualified worker. I hope that following my graduation from Holmes, I will be ready for a management position at Wal-Mart."

In addition to the experience gained while working, a student involved in the program also receives three hours of credit each semester.

"Another positive aspect of this program is that employers look for it on resumes, primarily because they want students ogy instructor.

The co-op program is very valuable in that it gives the students a chance to try out the company and it gives the company an opportunity to watch the student to see his or her skills and attitudes toward work.

Ridgeland Campus sophomore Michael Moore, an electronics technology major, has found that his classes help in his work at Griffith Stereo Sales and Service in Ridgeland and that his work helps in his classes.

"When I'm in class, I see problems that I remember having seen here at work. And at work, I recognize some of the things that I've learned working on the stereos in class. Plus I already knew how to use a lot of the test equipment."

Sometimes the field experience is truly 'in the field.'

Grenada Center sophomore Pam Vaughn, a student in the forest technology program, will participate in the co-op program with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. When working for the Corps of Engineers last summer, she was involved in assisting to carry out forestry and related programs in the timberlands around Grenada Lake. Some of the activities include: tree planting, prescribed burning, timber marking, forest inventory, wildlife management, safety and other types of natural resource work.

"The opportunity to apply principles of forest management taught at school as well as to gain practical on-the-job experience is invaluable and can be a great asset to the student seeking future employment," commented Vaughn.

A student qualifies for this program by being enrolled full-time in a technical field, but the student has to be recommended by his or her major adviser. A student must also submit an application while the company checks with the student's adviser. The advisers prefer that the student is ready to go to work at the time the application is submitted.

with classroom instruction as well as 'real world' experience. Also, it is a good way for the employer to be sure the student knows how to work with people," noted Lynn Wright, Ridgeland Campus Co-operative Education Program Coordinator and marketing technol-

Luther Boggan

Luther Boggan, a mathematics instructor on the Goodman Campus, has taught at Holmes since 1972. In addition to teaching, he serves as chairman of the math/science department, a post he has held since 1984.

Boggan graduated from Copiah-Lincoln Junior College in 1967 and the University of Southern Mississippi in 1969 with a degree in math. He received his master's degree from Southern in 1972.

Before coming to Holmes, he taught junior high and high school math courses with Hattiesburg City Schools.

Boggan currently teaches Elementary Algebra, College Algebra, Finite Mathematics, Calculus II & III, and Differential Equations.

The Goodman resident is a member of the Mississippi Teachers of College Mathematics, the Mississippi Faculty Association, Holmes Community College Educational Association and the American Mathematical Association of Two Year Colleges.

Boggan and his wife, Kay, Assistant Librarian on the Goodman Campus, have two children, Shelley and Adam.

Howard Butler

Howard Butler, a history instructor on the Goodman Campus, is a native of McComb.

He received his master's from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge in 1963, followed by a master's degree from the same university in 1965. He received an Educational Specialist degree in 1968 and a PhD. in 1974, both from Mississippi State University.

He taught social studies at Odum High School in Odum, Ga. before coming to Holmes. The Goodman resident currently teaches Western Civilization and American History.

Butler attended the National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Seminar at the University of Arkansas in 1979.

He and his wife Susie have one son, Brandon.

"I enjoyed the whole lamplighting experience, but especially the teaching techniques of other teachers that promote learning. I especially liked a film that was shown on 'Discovering the Future -- Power of Vision.' Some of the main points of the film were: visions are developed by leaders; visions of leaders must be shared and supported by all members of a group; visions, in order to be successful, must be comprehensive and detailed; visions must be positive and inspiring to reach goals in the future," concluded Butler.

Diane Green

Diane Green, computer technology instructor at the Grenada Center, holds an associate of applied science degree in business data processing from Mississippi Delta Community College. She is currently attending Mississippi State University. She graduated from Lee Academy in Clarksdale.

Green worked in business for 11 years before coming to the Grenada Center of Holmes in 1985.

Her husband David is a forester for Hankins Lumber Co. in Grenada. She has one child, Chris.

"The Lamplighter Conference was one of the best experiences I have had since teaching at Holmes Community College. We were treated as if we were very special people. I thank Holmes for participating in such a wonderful program and making us feel needed and useful," said Green.

Alice Anne Sisco

Alice Anne Sisco, fashion merchandising instructor on the Ridgeland Campus, is a graduate of Holmes. She also holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi and a master's degree from Mississippi State University.

In addition to serving as department head, Sisco teaches marketing, advertising, Introduction to Fashion Merchandising, Textiles, Fashion Design Fundamentals, Salesmanship, Fashion Buying, Merchandising Math, and Modeling. Before coming to Holmes in 1988, she served as the Marketing and Cooperative Education Coordinator for the New Albany City Schools.

Sisco serves as secretary of Ridgeland Faculty Association, adviser for Delta Epsilon Chi, chair for the Delta Epsilon Chi Fall Leadership Conference, and coordinator for the National Delta Epsilon Competition. She is also a judge for Distributive Education Clubs of America State Career Development Conference and the author of objectives of post secondary Fashion Merchandising Standardized Curriculum. She has designed and presented seminars for clubs, banks, schools, and department stores and produced fashion shows for various organizations.

Changes in technical curriculum make programs more efficient

by Chris Lewis

As those of you in the vocational/technical programs already know, there have been some changes made in that area. Completing your studies in the vocational/technical programs can result in three things: a certificate, a diploma or an A.A.S. degree.

A certificate is given in programs requiring less than twelve consecutive months of instruction and eight or more semester credit hours of coursework.

Completion of programs requiring twelve or more consecutive months of instruction and which do not meet the requirements for an Associate of Applied Science degree results in a diploma.

Technical programs which require a minimum of 64 semester credit hours of coursework, including fifteen semester credit hours of academic core courses, culminate in an A.A.S. degree.

For each vocational/technical course, student performance objectives have been suggested which identify a core of skills and knowledge to be included in the course. For the students in the A.A.S. degree program, the academic courses the students take directly relate to and support the vocational/technical area in which they are studying. In addition, various resources, such as computers, are being utilized.

Semester credit hour units have been assigned to each vocational and technical course in the program structure based upon a recommended number of lecture and/or laboratory hours per week extending over the course of a semester. One of the major goals of the articulation effort is to eliminate the duplication of program content.

The courses can be broken into three categories. Essential skills courses consist of the essential skills from corresponding secondary vocational skills programs. They can be identified by a number from 1011 to 1049. Advanced skills courses represents advanced skills taught to first year students in the community and junior colleges. They can be identified by a number from 1111 to 1999. Technical skills courses represent technical skills commonly taught in the second year of an A.A.S. degree program and are numbered from 2111 to 2999.

Grenada Center Associate Degree Nursing Program receives National League for Nursing accreditation

Holmes Community College associate degree nursing alumni have always been able to point to the fact that the Grenada Center was a fully accredited institution. That accreditation, however, came from the state. Now the ADN program is accredited by the National League for Nursing, the premier national accrediting group for schools and colleges offering ADN curricula.

Becoming accredited by the NLN was a long and arduous process that culminated in an on-site visit by a team that, after closely scrutinizing

Holmes' program, gave the college the highest rating an institution can receive. The certification is for five years, the period always accorded a first-time accredited school. This also means that the certifying process for Holmes graduates is retroactive to the class of 1992.

Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr., Holmes president, said that the "accreditation process, though long and extremely taxing on the college's nursing faculty, was accomplished with unparalleled professionalism and competence by all those taking part. I was extremely pleased and proud of the staff as they worked through this process.

"This merely reaffirms what we have long known, that we have an absolutely topnotch ADN program. It is a course of study that any participating students can be proud of; at the same time those in the communities served by our students can feel quite comfortable and safe knowing that the level of instruction received by the medical professionals is the finest." Morgan said.

The Grenada program continues to flourish. At present there is a total of 85 students. Of these, 44 are freshman and 41 are sophomores. Dorothy Rowzee, Holmes' Director of Associate Degree Nursing, said, "This is the largest overall enrollment since the school started. Our thorough admissions procedure allows us to select an exceptional group of students. We begin to accept applications when the spring semester starts, which a lot of people don't realize. We notify those who are accepted by the first of May. This enables those who have not had Anatomy & Physiology to take the courses in the summer since they are required courses for the nursing classes which begin in the fall."

Holmes' record of students passing state boards is almost unparalleled. Rowzee explained that much of the credit goes to the instructors, many of whom she explains not only teach but as a part of their routine work in various hospitals. That, she explains, "makes for a stronger department. All our nursing faculty members traditionally work while they are teaching."

With its growing reputation, it is understandable that applications for the program are ever increasing in number. Holmes, always a leader in its various pursuits, continues the tradition with its ADN program.

Grenada's McKay, Goodman's Jackson named H.E.A.D.W.A.E. representatives

by Terry Lockhart

Higher Education Appreciation Day Working for Academic Excellence, also known as H.E.A.D.W.A.E., was begun in 1988 by state representative Cecil Simmons. He organized this day to recognize outstanding faculty members and students from each college. The honorees are invited to spend the day at the state Capitol. There, they are presented to the Senate and the House of Representatives, and they are also given a luncheon in their honor.

This year's representatives from Holmes Community College are Sue McKay and Kyle Jackson. Recipients of this honor are chosen by a committee which is appointed by Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr., president of Holmes Community College. Teachers are then chosen on the basis of outstanding instructional merit. The student is selected according to his or her grade point average and the difficulty of courses he or she is taking.

A native of Forrest City, Ark., Sue McKay is in her seventh year of teaching mathematics at the Grenada Center of Holmes Community College.

She holds a bachelors degree in mathematics from Millsaps College and a masters degree in education with an emphasis in mathematics from Delta State University. She has also completed additional study at the University of Mississippi.

Before coming to Holmes, McKay had already taught for 20 years, which is in itself a testament to how much she loves her profession.

"Teaching is my favorite thing to do. I love mathematics and students. The first time I went into a classroom I could not believe how much fun it was and that I got paid for it, too," explained McKay.

She taught for two years at John Rundle High School and for 18 years at Kirk Academy, both in Grenada. Teaching at Holmes is her first experience in the college classroom.

"The thing I like about teaching at Holmes is that you have enough time with office hours to help those who need it. If they want to learn they have the opportunity to get the help here. I never realized until I came to work here what an opportunity Holmes has to help people. Teaching at Holmes has been the most rewarding experience of my life," noted McKay.

In addition to teaching, McKay is an adviser for the Baptist Student Union at the Grenada Center of Holmes. She is also an active member of First Baptist Church in Grenada.

She is a member of the Mississippi Teachers of College Mathematics and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. She served as a district chairman for the Mississippi Private School Education Association for several years and state co-chairman for a year.

She was selected as a Lamplighter representative for Holmes in 1990. She was also named an Outstanding Young Educator in Grenada County and a STAR Teacher several times while at Kirk Academy. She was named Who's Who in American Education in 1992 and 1993.

Goodman Campus sophomore Kyle Jackson has been named the student H.E.A.D.W.A.E. representative for Holmes Community College. An engineering major, he attended numerous high schools before coming to Holmes, including St. Andrew's Episcopal School in Jackson, Downers Grove North High School in Downers Grove, Ill., Brandon High School in Brandon and The Mississippi School for Math and Science in Columbus.

He has received numerous honors such as Mississippi Academic Team, perfect attendance and awards in Phi Theta Kappa.

Jackson plans to attend the University of Colorado after completing his studies at Holmes. He chose this institution because of the reputation its engineering program has and because it is in a different region of the United States.

HORIZONS '94

Dr. Samuel O. Massey, an Air Force Colonel now on active duty at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas, serves as chairman of the Department of Otolaryngology--Head and Neck Surgery for Wilford Hall USAF Medical Center.

Dr. Massey established a $500,000 fund from which will be drawn to educate individuals who attend Holmes Community College and become members of the medical profession. The scholarships follow the recipients to their graduation, no matter what their chosen medical field. Donating ten percent of their time without charge to practice their profession is the only stipulation.

After graduating from medical school at the University of Tennessee in 1956, he combined a private family practice with surgery from 1958 to 1969 at hospitals in Memphis, Tenn. and Picayune, Miss. In 1969, he went on to Tulane Medical School in New Orleans, La., where he completed a residency in Otolaryngology in 1973.

Dr. Massey has received several professional awards and honors, including the 1992-93 Excalibur Award for Outstanding U.S.A.F. Surgeon given by the Society of Air Force Clinical Surgeons. He has also received many awards and medals through his military service including a United Nations Service Medal and a United Nations Medal.

Dr. Massey's medical service extends far beyond Lackland Air Force Base. He volunteers his time to such places as Haiti, Dominica, St. Vincent, Belize and home medical mission work in the Appalachian Mountains and the Mississippi Delta.

Named Holmes Community College Alumnus of the Year in 1989, Dr. Massey served, not only through his words, but also his deeds, as an inspiration to the 1993 graduates of Holmes Community College.

Let us entertain you!

by Tamera Davis

This year has been full of great entertainment. Whether going to a movie, reading a book, watching television or listening to your favorite compact disc, Holmes Community College students found entertainment around every corner.

When we started school last summer, "Jurassic Park," based on the book of the same name by Michael Crichton, was breaking records at the box office. "The Firm," starring Tom Cruise, and "The Pelican Brief," starring Denzel Washington and Julia Roberts, both based on books by John Grisham, "Sleepless in Seattle," starring Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan, "Aladdin," a full-length Disney animation, and "Wayne's World II," with Michael Myers and Dana Carvey reprising the roles of Wayne and Garth they originated on "Saturday Night Live," are just a few of the movies that followed.

"I liked the movie, 'The Pelican Brief,' because it was full of excitement," commented Angel Humphries, a sophomore from Jackson.

Another thriller, "In the Line of Fire," starring Clint Eastwood, was selected by Stacy Moore, a freshman from West Point, as her favorite.

"I'm fascinated by the assassination of John F. Kennedy and I like Clint Eastwood," she said.

Stephanie McCombs, a sophomore from Jackson, picked a different movie for a different reason.

"I liked 'Free Willy' because it was touching," said McCombs.

The gang on the television show "Beverly Hills 90210" retained their popularity as they entered college. Other favorites included the soap opera "Day of Our Lives" and the situation comedy "Full House."

John Grisham's third book, "The Pelican Brief," proved to be one of the favorites of Holmes' students. Some other favorites include "Sweet Liar" by Jude Devoreaux and "The Bridges of Madison County" by Robert James Waller.

Paula Greer, a freshman from Kosciusko, said that "Jubilee" by Margaret Wilson is her favorite book "because it is a story of survival and courage."

Not only did "Aladdin" do well at the box office, its theme song, "A Whole New World," recorded by Celine Dion and Clive Griffin, became a hit song. Mariah Carey continued to have hit after hit with "Hero" being one of her top sellers. Meatloaf came out of the deep freeze with their first recording in several years and topped the charts with "I Would Do Anything for Love."

"Hero" was selected as a favorite song by both Anna Carol Cornett and Katrina Crowley.

"It shows that you have to look inside yourself and find the inner strength to take care of any situation," said Cornett, a freshman from Ackerman.

"It's a song that lets you know that there is a hero inside everyone," explained Crowley, a freshman from Weir.

Football provided countless hours of entertainment, with the Holmes Bulldogs, Dallas Cowboys and New Orleans Saints named as favorite teams of Holmes students.

HORIZONS '94

Groups find different ways of making money for clubs

If you had to choose one word to describe the fundraising efforts of the clubs on three campuses of Holmes Community College, it would have to be creative. From singing valentines to womanless beauty pageants to selling tools, Holmes' clubs have tried it all.

There are annual fundraising efforts that those associated with Holmes look forward to each year. For example, Phi Beta Lambda, the business club which provides the business students with the experience to succeed in the business world, sells Sally Foster gift wrap in the fall and spring. The fall selection features Christmas paper and the spring selection features Easter designs. In addition to wrapping paper, Sally Foster offers gift bags, tissue, cards, calendars and even cookies in decorator tins.

The womanless beauty pageant is popular both on the Grenada Center and the Goodman Campus. While the "Mess Charity" pageant, held on the Goodman Campus, may be full of false hairdos and false fingernails, it is truly an entertaining fundraiser for Delta Psi Omega and Holme-Towne Players, who then donate the proceeds to charity.

The Alpha Mu Beta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the junior and community college honor society, crowns "Mess Holmes" at the Grenada Center. This organization has also sold Stanley Home Products, held a car wash and a garage sale to raise money to attend the international convention of PTK.

On the Goodman Campus, the Kappa Alpha chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the Math and Combined Sciences Club and Industrial Education Club together hold Sidewalk Cafe once each semester. The Jazz Band plays as patrons enjoy homemade desserts and coffee or soft drinks served by faculty members.

In addition to Sidewalk Cafe, the Kappa Alpha chapter also takes orders for mild and sharp cheddar cheese, which members deliver in early December. Working in the concession stand at home basketball games is also on the fundraising agenda for them.

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America on the Goodman Campus works hard in the concession stand at home basketball games, including on the menu hamburgers and hotdogs.

Food sales are always a popular fundraiser for many of the organizations on the Ridgeland Campus. Area fast food restaurants, such as Chick-Fil-A, provide the fare while the club members take care of the details on campus.

Phi Beta Lambda on the Ridgeland Campus has held bake sales as well as handicraft sales, which featured bolos and keyrings made by members.

The Licensed Practical Nursing class on the Ridgeland Campus held a Halloween bake sale at the Ridgeland Wal-Mart. Wal-Mart, Malone Candy Co., Taylor's Candy Co., and Corr-Williams all made special donations to the group. Another fundraiser sponsored by the group was a drawing for two watches donated by Wal-Mart.

Candy sales are always a successful venture, with ACES and the Cosmetology Club, both on the Goodman Campus, plunging into that effort.

The Holmes Connection decided to put their vocal chords to work to raise funds for the group. For $10, the Holmes Connection would deliver a Singing Valentine to your sweetheart, friend or heartbreaker. You could choose one of 11 songs and send the group anywhere in Lexington, Pickens, Durant, Kosciusko, Ackerman, Weir or on the Goodman Campus.

Whether the funds go to pay for the groups to attend international conventions or to charity, the members of the organizations on Holmes Community College's three campuses have certainly found a million and one ways to make money and have fun doing it.

What a Difference a Stage Makes

by Natalie Sykes

Many students on the Holmes Community College campuses are involved in some form of the performing arts. It might be a character in a play, a voice in the combined choir, or a member of the Holmes Bulldog Marching Band. But before the show goes on, it takes a lot of practice to perfect those notes you sing or play on an instrument. Getting the lines down pat for a play takes hours of practice, both in rehearsals and on the actor's own. Practice is involved in everything the performers at Holmes do.

Practice is just part of the preparation that must go into a performance. The performers are also required to become movers and shakers when they take on their roles. Through moving heavy sound equipment to building sets for plays, many of Holmes' performers have found new muscles in our bodies. The packing and unpacking is one of their least favorite parts of the performing process. Many of them have mastered this moving process and have discussed going into the moving business upon our graduation from Holmes.

But the hours of practice and hard work moving equipment and building sets is worth it when the curtain rises and the audience enjoys the performance. Both the directors and performers take pride in their work and it is fulfilling to them to see the audience smiling and clapping at the concerts and plays.

Whether the marching band is on the football field at a halftime show or the jazz band is in front of the canteen at Sidewalk Cafe, or the concert band is on stage at the spring concert, the band members and director Gary Sheppard put all their collective energy into giving the audience a top-notch performance.

The Holme-Towne Players, under the direction of Rita Jones, spend many hours rehearsing, gathering props, building sets and making sure everything is perfect when the curtain goes up on opening night of their fall and spring performances.

Attending a performance of the Concert Choir, Coachmen or the Holmes Connection, such as the Christmas Concert in early December or the Pops Concert held at the end of the second semester, can be a cultural experience that is fun too. Director Jan Reid and vocalists, as well as the unsung (or rather unsinging) heroes, soundmen Glenn Trute and Mike Yates, don't mind the late nights spent rehearsing in McDaniel Hall or the Fine Arts Building if the audience enjoys the performance.

So the next time you hear of one of Holmes' groups performing, why don't you go? You can be guaranteed that you will enjoy yourself.

Remember, those on stage are performing for the audience, not themselves.

Or even better--get involved. You might not be able to carry a tune or play an instrument and have stage fright, but there are always backstage jobs you can do. It will make a great difference in your life. It has changed mine greatly--for the best!

Conventions provide club members new experiences

by Crystal Martin

Many of Holmes' organizations hold fundraisers to finance their trips to state and national conventions. The conventions allow the clubs to enjoy various activities, including lectures, workshops, competitions and meeting other students from across the state and across the country.

All three Holmes chapters of the international junior and community college honor society Phi Theta Kappa attended the national convention held over the summer in Dallas, Texas and the state convention held in October. The goal of Phi Theta Kappa is to recognize and encourage scholarship among young adults. At these conventions, PTK members are provided the opportunity to meet and fellowship with PTK members from different states or nations.

"The joy of attending a convention comes from getting to know different people that share your interests, hopes and dreams," said Julia Williams, an adviser to the Kappa Alpha chapter.

Members of Phi Beta Lambda, an organization which promotes business leadership and creates interest in business occupations, enjoy attending the state convention each spring.

Members can compete in various categories including parliamentary procedure, accounting and business law, among others. Those who place first in the state competition can then compete on the national level at the national competition.

This is also true of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, which encourages vocational and technical students develop leadership abilities as well as skills in their area of study, and Delta Epsilon Chi, an organization for students majoring in fashion merchandising and marketing.

The staffs of the Growl and Horizons attend the Mississippi Community/Junior College Press Association meeting each spring. The staff members are able to attend lectures and workshops conducted by professional journalists.

They are also given the opportunity to find out more about pursuing a career in journalism. While no competitions are held at the convention, awards for newspaper and yearbook are given out at this time.

All-State Band and All-State Choir give the musically inclined students the opportunity to participate with other talented students from around the state.

Conventions, both on the state and national level, represent another way being a member of the clubs and organizations at Holmes can make a difference in your life.

Club members explore many different topics in meetings

by Gerry Childs

Club meetings provide an opportunity for members to get together to discuss ongoing projects, fundraisers, upcoming trips to state, national and international conventions. In addition, it gives members the opportunity to learn more about their area or interest or simply provide them with interesting and useful information.

The Goodman Campus chapter of Phi Beta Lambda invites other faculty members to speak at their meetings. Reading and study skills instructor Julia Williams presented a short session on study habits and notetaking. Business and office technology instructor Sheila Teague presented a demonstration of Tae Kwon Do martial arts as well as other self-defense techniques.

The Creative Arts Club on the Ridgeland Campus invited Mississippi author Charles Wilson, who spoke on writing styles and the importance of each writer developing his own style rather than emulating another writer's style.

A Creative Writing Workshop, featuring Wilson and author Charles Ghigna. Topics covered by the speakers were "What Makes a Poem a Poem?" by Charles Ghigna and "From Short Stories to Novels," presented by Charles Wilson.

Some groups sponsor events which all students are welcome to attend. The Baptist Student Union sponsored a Welcome Back concert, featuring the A cappella group Testament, in January.

Speakers for the weekly B.L.A.S.T. (Believers Learning and Sharing Together) meetings include Goodman Campus chemistry instructor Ray Rutledge and Columbus youth minister Gary Permenter.

The Student Government Associations on all three campuses have invited caricaturist Steve Gipson to entertain students.

Mississippi State University industrial education instructor Chip Bailey spoke to the Industrial Education Club on membership in the National Association of Industrial Technology.

The speakers and programs offered by various organizations represent a wide variety of enlightening and entertaining topics.

Bulldogs put more bite behind bark

Head football coach Robert Pool and the Holmes Community College Bulldogs came away from the 10 games of 1993 with a break-even season.

The Bulldogs began the season with a bang, beating Jones 35-35. This, incidentally, was Jones County Junior College's only regular season defeat. This win was followed the next week by a victory over Northeast Mississippi Community College 23-13.

Unfortunately, the Northeast score of 13 proved unlucky for the Holmes squad as they took their show on the road. Holmes scored 13 points in the next two outings and both games registered in the loss column. Northwest Mississippi Community College beat the Bulldogs 28 to 13; Pearl River Community College Wildcats overcame Holmes with a score of 36 to 13.

But the never-say-die attitude kicked in and the Dogs managed to turn things around at the next game. The Holmes team was back in Ras M. Branch Stadium and ready for a victory. They snatched one from the jaws of the Southwest Mississippi Community College Bears, with a comfortable score of 31-7.

Yet again the tide turned. The Holmes contingency entered the playing field with high hopes of another victory at home. It was homecoming and, like all athletes playing for the alumni and fans who flock back to campus on such an occasion, the Bulldogs wanted a win. This desire was even greater because this homecoming eight of the best athletes in Holmes Community College's history were being inducted into the newly formed Holmes Sports Hall of Fame.

But the Itawamba Community College Indians were on the warpath. Always fierce competitors, the Indian squad showed no mercy on the overcast and windy afternoon. The final score ended in Itawamba's favor, 34-20.

From this disappointing loss, the Bulldogs traveled to Moorhead to face not only the team who would go on to win the Mississippi State Championship, but the National Junior and Community College Championship as well. This would prove to be the toughest game of all for the guys from Goodman. The final score read 35-0.

But rather than letting such a loss get to them, the Bulldogs rallied back to shut out Coahoma Community College, 41-0. The Coahoma squad had gained notoriety from the fact that they had the longest losing streak in college football. The 1993 season was to see that record broken, but it was certainly not the Holmes team who let it happen.

The Bulldogs continued their winning ways the next week as they met East Mississippi Community College and handed the squad from Scooba a 14-6 loss.

In the final game of the season the Dogs faced off against the Eagles of Hinds Community College in the Ras M. Branch Stadium in Goodman. As always, the team was fired up for the game against Hinds, but this particular one held extra significance. With a win, Holmes would claim its first winning season in several years. With a loss, the Dogs would end with an equal number of wins and losses. Unfortunately, Hinds pulled away after the confrontation with a 39-7 victory over the Dogs.

Even though the season ended on a disappointing note, the Holmes team has a lot to be proud of.

Several on the Bulldogs squad received All-State Honors. Named to the North-First Team Offense were Split End Shaston Coleman, Center Greg Marrocco, Running Back Bernard Kelly, and Punter Shelby Johnson. Tackle Walter Jones was named to the North-Second Team Offense. Interior Lineman Tim Campbell and Back Eric Johnson were named to the North-Second Team Defense. Receiving Honorable Mentions were Receiver Derek Shaw, Tackle Mickey Henderson, Defensive End Deryk McKinley, Defensive End Terry Day, Defensive End Michael Maddox, Defensive Tackle Steve Sessions, and Interior Lineman Henry Ellis.

Split End Shaston Coleman and Running Back Bernard Kelly were both named All-Region XXIII.

ROUNDBALLERS REACH FOR

by Erich D. Coleman

For Holmes Community College Men's Basketball coach Bennie Kimble, the 93-94 season is in a slump.

"The season as of now is a total disaster," said Kimble.

The men bulldog's are at a shocking 2-15 record.

"Before Christmas Holidays there was no effort, but since the Spring semester has started, I see more hustle and better effort," said Kimble.

Second semester freshman center Larry Haralson is averaging 13.6 rebounds per game. Haralson had an all time high rebounds against Hinds Community College in the fourth week with 20 rebounds.

Haralson noted, "The season could have been better than it is if some of our freshmen could handle the junior college level."

Haralson and the fourth semester guard Wallace Taylor agree that the fun part of being on the team is traveling to other schools.

Fourth semester sophomore guard Uchenna Nwagwu is considered the sixth man.

He brings to the squad 52 percent shooting from the field. When asked how being on a team has made a difference in his life, he said, "It helps me to interact with other people and to not be selfish." Nwagwu said the least fun part of being on the team is when they travel to other schools and lose. The most rewarding part of being on the team for the whole squad is getting out of class early and traveling to other schools. Fourth semester sophomore forward Ted Hucks said the hardest part of being on the team is keeping opinions to yourself. He also said the season is going to turn around as soon as they start taking the letter "I" out of team.

The Bulldogs have an upsetting 1-8 record at home and an 1-7 on the road record. They are 0-7 in district play. Leading scorer for the Bulldogs is second semester freshman Robert Wilson. Wilson is cruising in with a 24 point average per game. Wilson ranks sixth in scoring in the junior college level. He has accounted for 35 percent of the Bulldogs scoring. Leading rebounder for the Bulldogs is Larry Haralson. Haralson averages 15 rebounds per game. His 38 inch vertical helps him in those extra inches he lacks in being a center.

The bulldogs as a team shooting percentage is 48 percent. That puts them sixth out of 11 teams. Which is actually good. The downside of the team is that they average 15 turnovers per game. If the turnover ratio were narrowed, then the point spread would be less. Six games have been lost by less than seven points. Turnovers were part of that factor. This season the Bulldogs are giving up 76 points per game and are scoring 67 points per game. The Bulldogs are shooting from the freethrow line as a team at 80 percent, which is good for this ball club.

"The bench is seeing limited action because I'm not totally confident with a few players just yet," concluded Kimble.

'Improvement' key word for Lady Bulldogs' '93-'94 season

The Lady Bulldogs and Coach Larry Therrell returned to the court in November with a fierce determination to work their way back from the 2-24 record of the 1992-1993 season.

The determination was felt even more strongly for the returning players. Kosciusko native Angela Price, a 5'2 guard, was the second leading scorer her freshman year. She averaged 13.4 points per game and was also first in steals with 42. She hit 80 of 235 three-point shots for an average of 34 percent.

Dee Williamson, measuring in at 5'9, was another returning player. a Tri-County Academy graduate, Williamson averaged 3.8 points and four rebounds per game as a freshman.

In filling out the roster, Therrell looked for some players who had speed, could handle the ball and shoot. He also found some height.

Gena Tatum, a point guard from Denham Springs, La., registers on the height marker at 6'0. Point guard Rena Williams, who talents previously graced the court at J.Z. George High School, measures in at 6'1.

Therrell and the Lady Bulldogs know the key to improvement is in the defense.

"The major area of concern is defense. Last year we gave up an average of 79.5 points per game and that is the reason we won only two games and lost 24, even though eight of those losses were by an average of only 8.4 points per game. We allowed the other team too many second, third and fourth shots. We had to improve that to be competitive. And if we were going to improve, defense was where we had to start," said Therrell.

And improve they did.

Right from the start, it was evident that this was a team determined to turn things around. When taking stock at the half-way point, the team had six wins and eight losses. Although this was not a winning season yet, it was still an improvement over the previous season.

And it was obvious that a winning season was in reach for the Lady Bulldogs.

Then came that occurrence which students love and basketball coaches dread. Christmas Break. Most students get through their final exams dreaming of days of sitting in front of the television enjoying the results of Christmas baking.

But a Lady Bulldog knows that such activities, or rather inactivity, can prove extremely detrimental to the game. Even if the individual members stay active and spend some time practicing shots on their own, Christmas Break interrupts the usual practice routine. This sometimes gets the team out of sync with each other.

After losing the first couple of games, against Co-Lin and Northwest, after the break, it appeared that the girls from Goodman had lost their concentration and drive. But they soon proved this to not be the case. In a 77-76 win against Itawamba, the Lady Bulldogs again seemed to be turning the tide.

Jones County Junior College bus had a flat tire on the way to a game in Goodman, delaying the game for more than an hour. The team proved they would not let this frustration break their concentration and managed to pull out a win, 72-68.

The next home game made the team wonder if they were under some kind of curse when that game was delayed more than an hour by a scheduling mix-up with the officials. Unfortunately, East Mississippi Community College beat the Holmes squad, 66-79.

Now in his second year as coach of the Lady Bulldogs, Therrell has managed to mold team with spirit, drive and determination to win. The 12-17 record this season has proven that. And certainly the coach, players and fans alike see great things for this team in the 94-95 season.

Cheerleaders integral part of Holmes' sports

by Crystal Martin

Cheerleading has almost always been an interesting sport because of the positive vibes the cheerleaders generate. Quite often they can cheer a losing team to an astonishing victory.

Because cheerleaders always seem to be happy, it seems like a dream job. Even if the team loses, they have a way of making the team not feel so bad about losing. If their team is in a losing situation, the cheerleaders have a way of lifting the team's spirits and building up the team's confidence. When cheerleaders find they have the power, they quickly see that it can be used for the benefit of the team.

And all Holmes athletes appreciate the support cheerleaders and fans give them when they are playing.

Baseball season looks bright for Bulldogs

by Erich Coleman

For Holmes Community College baseball teams, things are looking good as of now. The official season hasn't started.

"The players scrimmage among themselves and they look good," said Coach Morgan. The squad will bring into this season great depth. On the squad are five sophomores.

When asked what's the fun part about the team, fourth semester sophomore catcher Shelby Johnson said "It gives me the experience that most universities are looking for." Johnson said the most rewarding part of being on the team so far is getting visited by some of the professional league teams. Last season Johnson rolled in second on the team batting with an average of .307.

Pablo Yates, a second semester freshman shortstop, has looked very good so far, noted

Coach Morgan. For Yates, the hardest part of being on the team is getting up early in the morning to run two miles. Yates added that it is punishment for violating rules is another hard part of being on the team. Yates is a native of Eupora. In his senior year, he was voted best fielder.

"I hope I can bring that same perspective to this squad," said Yates.

Fifth semester sophomore right fielder Carroll Brown is an unusual story for the team. Brown has been plagued with injury. He has yet to play a full season. Brown's first year on the team was hit with an ankle injury that required surgery, but that still didn't stop Brown. His second year on the team the old injury slowed him down and it put him deep on the depth chart. This season he's back better than ever. When asked how has being on the team made a difference in his life he said, "It's taught me how not to quit. He also added good experience. The twins play in a summer league baseball program that is developing their skills. The twins agree that the fun part of being on the team so far is getting to compete against each other within the club.

Morgan said that the twins are unique. "Most brothers can't play together, but the Blaines know there's no room for that within a team and I like that."

The ball club has had not one scrimmage with an opposing team, but they have had scrimmages within the team. A good factor from that is that they had very few errors from his freshmen. The bad thing is that they haven't been in battle with the enemy.

"In order to have a good season this year will depend a lot on our pitching staff," concluded Morgan.

that without fellow teammates he would have given baseball up, but he stuck with it and it has made him a better person."

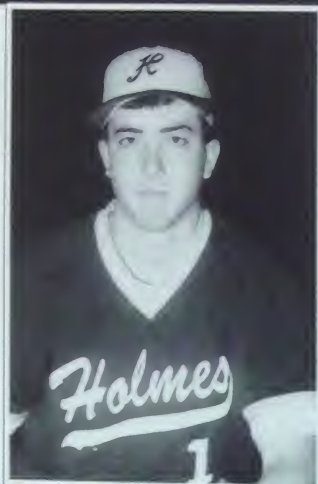

Also on the ball club of the Bulldogs is a set of twins Jim and Tim Blaine. The brothers bring to this ball club

Tennis team puts focus on fun, hard work

Although Holmes Community College's tennis season has not started, the tennis team, lead by coaches Robert Harris and Audra Love Kimble, have put forth a great deal of effort. They started off by having tryouts in January. They narrowed the team down to seven men and seven women, which is two players over the normal limit.

Their season spans from early March to late April, culminating in the State Tournament, which is held in Jackson.

Although sports can be very stressful at times, the tennis team manages to focus mainly on the fun features. Coach Harris stated that most enjoyable part for him was working with the players. He also commented that he enjoys seeing them get out there.

"It helps keep me young," remarked Harris.

David Dobbs, a team manager who played for two years, explained how the competition out there every single day keeps the enthusiasm circulating. "The goals never end," Dobbs remarked.

Dealing with tennis also has its hard parts. Having two matches in one week will take its toll. Practicing in the winter air also has its misfortunes. But the greatest problem for the coaches is having to teach the next day after a long road trip. Students have to go to classes, and sometimes even take a test, after matches on the road.

Tennis team member Chris Smith said another hard part is the pressure of living up to expectations.

What a difference a year makes

by Tamera Davis

This year at Holmes has been very enjoyable for many students, providing them with memories that will last for a long time. The events that took place at Holmes range from club activities to sporting events, both official Bulldog games and intramural games.

Some of the memories consists of humorous tricks that have been played on friends in the dorms or instructors.

The Student Government Associations on each campus sponsored many events designed to bring students together for the lighter side of school. Some of the events include Skate Night, dances, cookouts, contests, movie nights, and Spring Fling.

Baptist Student Union, under the leadership of director Christy Carley, sponsored several activities including Monday night BLAST, Bible study groups, a performance by Testament, an a cappella group from Mississippi State University, and Scream Team performances.

Some of the events we'll remember the most include the day former Holmes Community College football team member Greg Robinson, who now plays football with the Los Angeles Raiders, came to visit the Goodman Campus.

Of course, the members of The Holmes Connection will never forget performing at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla. or the trip itself.

Every student walks away from Holmes Community College with a different experience. Some enjoy meeting new people at the beginning of school. Others enjoy playing intramural football or going to a Holmes football game and being involved with homecoming.

Making a difference at Holmes this year for some students meant getting involved in leadership activities. Buffy McElroy and Penny Norris led the dorm devotions in Yazoo Hall. Every member of the band, vocal groups, athletic teams, Phi Theta Kappa and other organizations made a difference by contributing to the life of the school through these groups.

And being involved makes a difference in the lives of those participating in the groups on Holmes' three campuses.

"It gives me a feeling of accomplishment to be involved in Baptist Student Union activities," said Carol Burden.

Overall, this year at Holmes has been great -- full of activities -- and it has provided memories for all the students at Holmes.

A few last words from our staff...

by Terry Lockhart

Working on the Horizons staff has been a very rewarding experience. It taught me that working with people can be fun. I learned the importance of working hard. The Horizons staff and I have worked hard to make sure our annual is something to be proud of.

"It takes a lot of work," noted Natalie Sykes, editor.

Sophomore staff member Gerry Childs stated, "It has been quite a challenge."

"It has been a very rewarding experience for me," noted sophomore Shirley Griffin.

Freshman Chris Lewis explained, "It was a lot of hard work."

"I hope you enjoy it," said Tilden Clark, a staff member from Yazoo City.

I hope you enjoy reading this year's annual as much as I have enjoyed working on it. The part I enjoyed most was identifying the pictures. I would like to send out a special thanks to everyone that placed an ad in this year's annual.

In closing, the staff hopes you enjoy the 1994 Horizons.

As I look back at the 1993-1994 school year I reflect upon the many fond memories that have occurred in my life. The "Making A Difference" theme really has applied to me as well as the other staff members. We have worked our hardest in trying to prepare the ideal yearbook for you. We made our biggest difference by accepting our positions on the yearbook staff. For me I have changed my outlook on things and my attitude about school. My yearbook staff has helped me to do so. Thanks Gang. I want to thank Terry, Tilden, Gerry, Tamera, Chris, Erich, Shirley and Crystal for joining the staff. You all have been wonderful, and I will never forget about the many favors I owe you. You have been wonderful to work for and with. I hope you realize the difference you have made throughout the year. I hope we all continue to keep in touch. See you next semester. Mrs. Blanton, what can I say? You have been the greatest adviser anyone could ever have. You have been very patient and understanding with all of us. When the going got rough you put us to work. You never gave up on our potential. You really have made a great difference in my life. Thank you!! To my mother, Nan Sykes, thank you for encouraging me to take this position and always teaching me to dream big. I also want to thank you for your efforts in helping us complete our picture deadline. Without that help we never could have made it. Also, thanks for teaching me how to use that blasted computer. It sure has come in handy. I love you Mom. Mr. Williams, I want to thank you for all of your encouragement. You made me see the light in my darkest moments.

To the students of HCC I say thank you for being there when you were needed. I would especially like to thank those students who offered their opinions in our featured surveys. Although these views may not necessarily reflect those of the Board of Trustees, administration, faculty, or staff at Holmes, they are an integral part of our book. You mean as much to me as my staff does. Without your help our many articles would never have been completed. I also want to thank the faculty and staff for their help in completing our articles. We could not have made our yearbook complete without your knowledge.

Terry, Tilden, Tamera, Gerry, Chris, Erich, Shirley and Crystal remember that there are thousands of Mr. Students to be identified in that lovely yearbook room. Also, remember to make a difference in the world each day in some way possible. I treasure each one of you.... Thank You from the bottom of my heart!!!

Natalie Sykes
